Your Top 5 Spiritual Gifts

1. Craftsmanship — 100%
Primary Charism

Craftsmanship is the conviction that what is given to God should be well made. Hands, tools, materials, patience. It comes alive in the work itself, in the hour spent getting a joint or a hem or a finish right. What people receive is beauty nobody had to ask for. You will know this one is yours if you have redone finished work because only you could see the flaw.

2. Service — 100%
Primary Charism

Service is the readiness to do a necessary task without needing it to be interesting. Chairs, envelopes, dishes, setup, the hour before and the hour after. It comes alive close to the work rather than close to the plan. What people receive is a parish that runs. You will know this one is yours if you have started stacking chairs while others are still talking.

3. Wisdom — 92.5%
Primary Charism

Wisdom is knowing what to do with what you know. It tends to be sought out rather than offered, usually by someone facing a decision with no clean answer. What people receive is a way forward that accounts for more than they were weighing. You will know this one is yours if people bring you decisions rather than questions.

4. Caregiving — 85%
Primary Charism

Caregiving is the willingness to stay close through the unglamorous stretch: the long illness, the weeks after the funeral, the job that never came back. It works one person at a time, with no deadline attached. What people receive is the sense of not having been left. You will know this one is yours if you are still showing up after the crisis has passed.

5. Discernment — 85%
Primary Charism

Discernment is the ability to tell what is really going on underneath what is being said. It surfaces in the pause before a decision, when a plan looks fine but something does not sit right. What people receive is protection from a wrong turn they could not see. The tell is having been right about a bad decision before you could explain why.
